Election of Species

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

A) spermatozoa diploidy, B) sexual chromosomal disomy and C) gamete aneuploidy.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

i. Applicant is required under PCT Rule 13.2 to elect a single disclosed species of gamete chromosomal alterations selected from A) spermatozoa diploidy, B) sexual chromosomal disomy and C) gamete aneuploidy as recited in claims 12-15 and

Art Unit: 1647

22 for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The following claim(s) are generic: 12.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: for each disease, the etiology and potential molecular mechanisms underlying each disease are different. For example, the pathology and etiologies of gamete aneuploidy are very different from those of spermatozoa diploidy and sexual chromosome disomy. The patient population in each condition is also very different. The health status, the medication, the diagnosis, and the physiological condition in patients with gamete aneuploidy are very different from those with spermatozoa diploidy and sexual chromosome disomy. It requires different diagnoses, equipments, steps and treatments for these different groups of patients. Therefore, these species lack the same or corresponding special technical features and thus do not relate to a single general inventive concept.

Art Unit: 1647

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143). In order to be fully responsive, Applicant is required to elect a single species as set forth above to which the claims will be restricted, even though the requirement is traversed. The subject matter for examination will be restricted to the extent of the subject matter of the elected species.

4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

5. Any inquiry of a general nature or relating to the status of this general application should be directed to the Group receptionist whose telephone number is (571) 272-1600.
